MEDIA ALERT

TUESDAY 3RD NOVEMBER 2015

WILDLIFE HABITAT HOSTS LOCAL WILDLIFE AUTHORS

Australia's leading wildlife experience, Wildlife Habitat in Port Douglas, will be hosting several local wildlife authors at the upcoming Meet Your Local Wildlife Author event.

The event, proudly supported by the Wet Tropics Management Authority, coincides with the recent release of 'Eternal Endemism The Wet Tropics' by Craig Ward, a collection of extraordinary photographs of local Wet Tropics wildlife.

Other authors include Tim Hawkes, Paul Curtis, Martin Cohen, Pam Galeano and Eva Marie Welsh, with a number of popular wildlife photography and children's books published between them.

Wildlife Habitat Manager Clare Anderson said the event would be a great day out for families and an opportunity to meet some of the region's most well-known wildlife authors.

"The day will start with each of the authors speaking about the inspiration behind their books, and how the Wet Tropics influenced their work," she said.

"Guests will then be able to meet the authors individually, purchase copies of their books and get the books signed."

Local residents will receive 50% off entry to Wildlife Habitat on the day, allowing them to come early to the park and experience the diverse range of wildlife on display.
